OVERVIEW

This symposium for nurses and allied healthcare professionals will offer a comprehensive update on conditions related to cardiovascular disease, including topics related to acute coronary syndrome, heart failure, valvular heart disease, cardiac electrophysiology and cardiovascular emergencies. This course will include basic reviews of cardiac anatomy and hemodynamics, evidence-based guidelines for medical management of ACS, HF and atrial fibrillation, complex treatment using device therapies for HF, arrhythmias and valvular heart disease as well as emergency care for VT storm, aortic dissection and CAD crises.

The conference will provide an opportunity for healthcare professionals to update their knowledge in caring for patients with ACS, HF, valvular heart disease and cardiac arrhythmias and cardiovascular emergencies to improve clinical outcomes.

TARGET AUDIENCE

Health care providers including NPs, RNs, PAs, nurses, CV techs and other health care professionals interested in learning more about cardiovascular disease management.

CME & CEU credits will be available
