Educational Philosophy

The Early Education Center has been empowering children to learn and grow since 1988. Strongly rooted in the well-established principles of developmental play, our philosophy facilitates an environment in which children are free to fully engage with their surroundings while building their self-esteem. Our approach ensures that children are exposed to a wide variety of learning opportunities and experiences.

Literature-Based Approach

Exposing children to books at an early age is imperative to speech, language and cognitive development. That is why we focus on building early literacy skills with students of all ages — from our youngest infants to our graduating five-year-olds.

Nurturing the Whole Child

We believe every child is unique and special, each with individual interests and needs, and our teachers are experienced in identifying and utilizing these attributes to maximize educational opportunities as they occur. Children are cared for in a safe, nurturing and stimulating environment, allowing them to play and learn at their own pace. Children are encouraged to explore and manipulate their learning environment, but are never forced to participate in any activity. This holistic, child-centered approach to development has been proven throughout the years.
